'Parade' musical recounts events culminating in Leo Frank lynching

Staff reports

Kennesaw State University's Department of Theatre and Performance Studies will present "Parade" on Nov. 19 at 7:30 p.m. at the Strand Theatre, 117 N. Park Square in Marietta, and on Nov. 22 at 7:30 p.m. at The Temple-Atlanta, 1589 Peachtree St. NE in Atlanta.

Alfred Uhry

This Tony-award winning musical recounts the sequence of events that culminated in the 1915 lynching of Leo Frank, the Jewish manager of a pencil factory who was accused of murdering 13-year-old Mary Phagan. The musical, the product of playwright Alfred Uhry and composer Jason Robert Brown, premiered on Broadway in 1998 and won two Tony awards. The concert-style staging, directed by College of Arts interim associate dean and theater professor Harrison Long with musical direction by Judith Cole, COTA's resident musical director, commemorates the 100th anniversary of these tragic moments in Georgia's history.

"To my knowledge, 'Parade' has never been performed in Marietta, the community where Leo Frank was lynched. I think it's time. This show helps us better understand where we are today because it reminds us where we came from. But despite the atrocities of our past, 'Parade' is an incredibly beautiful, moving and entertaining piece of musical theatre. The entertainment factor helps us relax enough and trust enough to let down our 'Parade.' I hope our audiences will feel something similar when they leave the theatre," said Long.

Uhry will hold an open conversation about "Parade" at the Stillwell Theater on KSU's Kennesaw campus at 3:30 p.m. on Nov. 19. The presentation is free and open to the public.

KSU's Department of Theatre and Performance Studies has been examining this painful chapter in Southern history in conjunction with the KSU Office of the President, College of Humanities and Social Sciences, and the Department of Museums, Archives and Rare Books, as well as the Paul and Beverly Radow Lecture Series and The Temple-Atlanta.

The Nov. 19 performance at the Strand Theater will have $5-$20 tickets. To purchase tickets, call (470) 578-6650 or visit ticketing.kennesaw.edu. Immediately following the Alfred Uhry and director Harrison Long.

A smaller, scaled-down production will be presented at The Temple-Atlanta on Nov. 22, followed by a talkback with theatre professor Karen Robinson and musical director Judith Cole. The Nov. 22 event is
